To you, from Phil... "Did you know that the DDRC has a Bulletin Board at our disposal? There is a website called luv2paddle.com out there and it has a section for the DDRC. I'm on there ALL THE TIME. Are you on there and I just don't know who you are? This is a great tool for communicating to other club members, gathering information for trips and meeting paddling partners. Check out all the areas of the website. There is a race section, newbie section, trip report section, gear swap section..... you can even drop in on the Austin, Houston and East Texas paddlers and see what's going on around the state. Check the DDRC website for a link to luv2paddle.com today!"

President Prattle by Bryan Jackson

I hope everyone has been having as great a summer as I have. Being able to paddle way into August thanks to the heavy rains has been fantastic.

Its time to get ready for the Trinity River Challenge, being held this year on September 11. Registration is open and forms and rules are in the back of the newsletter. If you are planning to race, great, if not, we still could use some volunteers to help with the two Watermelon Cleanups and with things on race day. Contact Sam Sloan or myself if you can give us some help. We will be having two raffles at the race. The first will be the regular raffle of donated items from our sponsors. The other will be for the Perception Antigua 12' recreational kayak. Tickets for the kayak are $3 each or 4 for $10 and are on sale now. See Gail at the August meeting.

Plan on attending the August and September meetings, as we will have a few guests coming to speak. At the August meeting, Bruce Litton from the TRPA will be in to give everyone the Hidalgo Falls Property orientation that's required before you can have access to the gate combination. He will also be speaking about the property in general and a future plans for it.

The September meeting will feature Adelaide Leavens. Adelaide is the Executive Director of Streams and Valleys; a non-profit org that has been heavily involved in the development of the Trinity Park whitewater dams in Ft. Worth and is currently drumming up support for a new bigger and cooler attraction for Gateway Park in East Ft. Worth. Adelaide will be on hand to tell us more about the projects and what we can do to help.

Just when you thought it was safe to go paddle the Nueces, a bunch of our 4-wheelin' friends are trying to get the Uvalde County commissioners to approve a driving plan covering 65 miles of the Nueces and the Frio rivers. It seems they just can't wait to get back to chewing up the riverbeds and there is a loophole in the recently passed law that would let local authorities allow it. Unfortunately it looks like the county might just ok it too. If you want to write a letter to express your displeasure here's the address:

Judge Mitchell and County Commissioners
#3 Courthouse Square
Uvalde, TX 78801

Your opinion on these matters does count, so please write today.

Our first Swap Meet and Dutch Oven Cook Off, while lightly attended was still a success I think. There was all kind of cool stuff to buy, super food entries, and all who came had a good time. Thanks to Ray and Mary again for letting us invade their backyard. Next time, we'll do it in May or June (or maybe in the fall) when it's cooler.

That's all I have this month, see you all at the meeting and the race!

Ft. Worth's Next White Water Park by Phil Lang

Now that Ft Worth has finished the Trinity White Water Park and has seen how successful it has been, they are now ready to explore the idea of building a full-scale, world-class park in their city.

On August 3, Streams and Valleys, a non-profit organization in Tarrant County, held a meeting to discuss a fundraiser to finance the final engineering of this new park. Larry Lewis of the DDRRC and I attended the meeting, along with a handful of other white water enthusiasts.

The fundraiser will be to bring back the design team to finalize plans for the new park. Look for information on the website and bulletin board for details on this event!

Newsletter EMAIL Issues

Please keep us posted of any changes in your email address. If you'd like to get the newsletter electronically, or haven't been getting it and you're wondering why, we might not have your correct email. Send the editor your email address at cathy_nelle@hotmail.com

As a participant in any DDRC activity, an individual assumes the responsibility of evaluating all inherent risks before participating and assumes any risk of death or injury inherent in the sport. The participant waives claims that may arise against the club, its officers, members, servants, agents and/or trip coordinators, for death or injury to person or property, including claims of vicarious liability and claims arising from civil recklessness or any degree of negligence. Not waived are claims against an individual who causes injury intentionally or with criminal recklessness and claims among driver, owner and passengers of a motor vehicle for injuries.

Hidalgo Falls

Bruce Litton will be doing a presentation at the DDRC meeting on August 19 on the regulations for using the TRPA property at Hidalgo Falls. That presentation will serve as an orientation to the property, and any DDRC member who attends it is eligible for getting the combination for this year (limited quantities available).

Combinations won't be given out at the meeting. Rather, they will be e-mailed after (a) a signed form is submitted acknowledging that the person agrees to the use conditions, and (b) confirmation is made that the person has donated money or labor or is designated by a club as a club-supported Hidalgo Falls user.

Because the DDRC has donated $333 this year, we can currently designate 13 members to receive the combination. If more slots are desired, either the club can donate more money to the Hidalgo Falls project or encourage the members to join TRPA at the Protector ($25/yr) level.

Rockport Ledge, Arkansas by Phil Lang

Every year the Arkansas Canoe Club sponsors an event in Malvern, Arkansas called the Rockport Ledge Surf & Turf. Rockport Ledge is a section of the Oachita River right as it passes under Interstate 30 near Hot Springs.

There are scheduled releases from Remmel Dam almost every day during the summer. These consistent releases draw quite a number of canoers, kayakers and rafters from around the state and beyond. So, being the newbie kayaker that I am, I decided to check this event out. I was on my own!

The drive is fairly easy. You just get on I-30, drive east for 4.5 hours, turn left and go 3 blocks. I arrived Friday evening about 6 pm. There were a dozen or so locals hanging around that were happy to show me the play spots and explain the area and events to take place over the weekend. After a few hours of drowning myself in one of the many play spots, I decided to call it a day.

Saturday I arrived 2 hours before the scheduled release. I ran into a couple of guys from Austin and we decided to shuttle upstream and ride the release down to the ledge. There were about 100 or so boaters doing the same and we had a great float in the cold clear water down to Rockport. As we arrived I could see hundreds of paddles gleaming in the sunlight. Someone counted 200 kayakers! I hung around till about 3. My back started hurting, so I decided to take siesta and come back about 6pm. I put in and found that I had the entire river to myself, with the exception of 2 inflatables that were playing in the big surf wave. I surfed until I couldn't paddle anymore and then checked into my hotel and passed out. Sunday brought a whole new set of boaters out. I met more locals and more people from Austin and Dallas. The water came up about noon. I hung out till about 3 and packed up and headed home.

The Arkansas Canoe Club hosted a great event. I believe there were people from Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas, and Missouri. I'm going to bet there were 400 boaters over the course of the weekend. And the most amazing part was-everyone got along!

July Urban Paddle Trip Report by Phil Lang

The hot, dry weather finally caught up with us this month. All the creeks and rivers finally settled down enough for us to run a normal Urban Paddle and Potluck Adventure. We decided to put in just below the fourth dam of the Ft. Worth White water Park on the Trinity River. A few people had some comments about my weird driving directions, but no one (that I know of) got lost, nor did anyone bash the roof of their car trying to drive under the railroad trestle.

We had over 20 participants this month. Everyone was in the water by about 9:30 a.m. We paddled into downtown past the new Tandy Center, then headed up the West Fork of the Trinity. For the first time in my life I was able to see the bottom of the river! We saw several large turtles scrambling for cover as we floated over. After a couple of hours we made our way back to Trinity Park for lunch. There was the usual variety, but Bryan had to leave before he could grace us with his famous hot dogs. Even though we were picnicing under 300-year-old oak trees, the heat got the best of us and we adjourned about 1 p.m.

The white water park was running at about 48 cfs - hardly enough to keep the chutes in the dam wet, so we headed home. Join us August 21 for a steaming hot time. We will post final information on the website and the DDRC bulletin board soon!

Sloshing on the Sabine by Jeff Coker (Part 1 of 3 — A 10-day journey begins...)

I can't tell you the last time the Rio Grande had enough water for an enjoyable float trip. I guess it's going on 5 or 6 years now. A float trip was planned for the Rio Grande during the Christmas break, but because of low water, the trip was changed to the Sabine River above Longview and run down to near Toledo Bend or around 100 miles. We would leave the day after Christmas for a ten-day trip down the river.

The characters in this story are the usual suspects found hanging around rivers or just about any body of water when they can escape work, wives, or any of a thousand excuses used to get away from home and float down a river.

Suspect #1 was Charles Edwards, a.k.a. Charlie or Carlos. Charles can usually be found floating down the Grand Canyon, talking about an up and coming trip to the Grand Canyon, returning from a trip from the Grand Canyon, or planning a trip to the Grand Canyon. Charles has more miles down the Grand Canyon than anyone I know and is the best boater and teacher I have ever met, and can also make a mean river-rita!

Suspect #2 was Jack Deatherage, a.k.a. Jackie, Dell Dribble or Rusty Shackelford. Don't let his small stature fool you. Jack has been known to do more than his fair share and has shown almost super human ability. He should also be considered armed and flatulent, but he is not one to toot his own horn.

Suspects # 3 and 4 were Weldon Sanders and a new face, Ray Foley. What can be said about these 2 desperados that hasn't been said before? Ray is said to be a pyromaniac. His favorite song is "Light my Fire." Ray is a good person to have along when you need to bum something down, or in cold weather he will keep you warm. Weldon is said to be armed to the teeth. A real survivalist, he can bring home the bacon.

Last but not least was my cousin Andy. This will be his first canoe adventure and multi day camp trip. He was a virgin, and I didn't know how he would react on this trip. Andy also has a God given talent of being an expert on everything. You know the type, on any subject, on any topic, he knows more about it than anyone, and is not afraid to tell you about it. Don't get me wrong, I love my cousin in spite of his shortcomings. He was even nice enough to teach me how to canoe even though this was his first, canoe trip. I was happy to receive his canoe instructions; I didn't know I had been doing it wrong the past thirty years. I have paddled thousands of miles on most of the rivers and streams across Texas; I have paddled rivers in Arkansas, Colorado, and Mexico, doing it wrong all the time. How was I to know I was doing it wrong all the time? Thank goodness for Andy showing me the errors in my canoeing technique, or I would still be doing it wrong.

The put-in on the upper Sabine is north of Interstate 20 between Longview and Kilgore. My wife, Gayelynn, acted as our shuttle driver and drove us to the river. She would pick us up down river in ten days. We couldn't have done the trip without her. (To be continued...)
